Of course we are not yet through with the season and much may be deme with favorable or unfavorable weather, as the case may be, to add to or subtract from the final outhirm, but we are certainly obliged in look at the situation with far less optimistic eves than we could wish, and, though we realize the bear side is the unpopular side and are very rejuctant to take it when there is any justification for the other view, we do not feel that we ought to advise our friends to buy cotton for anything more than a temperary resention. On the contrary, to those who are to receive spot cotton during the fall and winter it seems to as the part of commercial wisdom to sell against at least a portion of such expected receipts, even though the price is not a particularly handsome one.

NEWYORK COTTON MARKET

SENTIMENT IS STILL BULLISH, DE-SPITE THE DECLINE.

Experts Who Have Been South Predict a Short Crop-Higher Prices Are

Predicted. (Special to The Post.)

New York, September 7.-What promised to be the beginning of a buil move ment in the cotton market was unpleasantly interrupted by the government cotton report of Tuesday, the foreshadowing of which caused an interruption in the advance of prices and its actual appearance producing a real decline, which brought figures down to such points that it en- day. dangered margin accounts to such an extent that stock orders were cought and the result was that at the week's close the commodity is found to be several points below that which reigned at the beginning. The government report was an especially unfortunate affair, for, as has been pointed out previously, the lines laid down by open ators and commission houses were such as led to buying for a buil turn. Innumerable letters and persuasive articles have been put out especially among Southern speculators, as perhaps the readers of this know, the purport of which was to pro duce further investments in the futures. and to open up a largely diversified interest in the commodity. This program verest in the commodity. This program was seriously interrupted by the decline which began in Liverpool and will end—we can not say where.

It is to be repretted that a false start has been made, but now that the act has been committed there is nothing to do but look it in the face and in so deing one can not help but see how purposeless and immeaning is the decline that was re-

The sentiment in New York remains bull, is and is rather increased than diminished as a lower level is reached, and the best advices that can be obtained at this time is to purchase on all declines.

NO DECIDED TENDENCY SHOWN.

New Orleans Cotton Market Was Quiet Throughout Yesterday.

Only a moderate amount of trading was done during the short hours in the market for contracts and but little disposition was shown by operators for either account to push an advantage. Liverpool was rather heavy and lower by 2.32 on spots and 4.84 to 3.644 for deliveries in response to which the market at the first call was 5 to 6 points lower. Prices fluctuated during the forenoon over a range of 4 to 6 points either way, but without any time showing a very decided tendency and the closing, by comparison with resterdar's figures, stood at net losses of but 2 points on September and October, 4 points on November and 3 points on each of the other months. months.

COTTON LOST BUT LITTLE.

New York Market Resisted Several Very Bearish Influences.

New York, September 7,-The market for cotton futures opened weak with prices 2 to 10 points lower under a sport of local and outside liquidation and temporary absence of buyers, due in part to the shock received in the news from Buffalo and 'n part to bearish Liverpool cables. The first wave of selling carried October to 7.45 and January to 7.68. But before 10:30 the market scored a complete change of front and on a good demant from both sides frices shot up several polats with shorts once more on the defensive. During the rest of the day the market was irregular, but not weak at any time. Trade was almost entirely of a professional type.

In the meanwhile, it may have a depressing effect on all values, temporarily, but we are of the opinion that the conservative businesse men of America will use every effort that brains and money can do to avert any flannell disaster.

All that is requisite, is confidence to prevent any panile and we feel certain that these who have large interests will interest will private the product of the prevent of the pre Cargill & Richardson's Letter. Houston, Texas, September 7 .- Notwithstanding the sad news of the attempted assassination of President McKinley, and an almost panicky opening on the New York stock exchange this morning, cotton behaved manfully. A few scared longs sold the market off a few points at the open ing, but all was quickly absorbed by new onying by those who took profits earlier in the week and were waiting for an easy perior to reinvest. Room traders who have een flirting with the bears for a day or two were glad of the opportunity to cover, two were glad of the opportunity to cover, and with no pressure of spois from the toterior a decidedly steadler feeling was manifested. The movement is not heavy, in fact, while little cotton is moving goes direct to the consumers, and stocks at the centers are increasing very slowly, so showly, that any decided efforts ar manipulation would cause price for futures to advance much nearer prevailing quotations for spots.

Liverpool was not a good market this morning, futures 4.64 to 5.64 down; spots 1.16 down. New York closed 5 to 7 down. New Orieans 2 to 3 down. Spots un charged.

The maximum period allowed for preparaion by the occurrence of the tragedy only shortly after the close of yesterday's market and the added interval due to the clos ing of the London stock exchange today were halled with some degree of relief by the financial world.

The great powers in the financial world got to work shortly after the news was eccived yesterday and have been in con-sultation and making active efforts ever since. The committee of the New York eleuring house assembled this morning be-fore the opening of the stock exchange and had with them in consultation the great bankers and capitalists of the metropdis.
